
Describe a person who helps to protect the environment

You should say:

Who this person is

How this person protects the environment

What difficulty this person has faced

And how you feel about this person

A close friend of the family, who we call Uncle Wade, is one person who wants to help protect the environment.

He does this by organizing different events, like concerts, to raise funds. The money raised is used to rehabilitate tourist spots that have been damaged by tourists. Uncle Wade also uses different strategies to make sure that his events don't damage the environment either. This includes garbage control, which is one of the most common threats to the environment that come from big events.

He has had some difficulty applying these strategies in rural areas. This is because many locals don't like outsiders interfering with how they normally do things. Most locals care more about making money than helping the environment.

Uncle Wade tries very hard. He has some very great ideas and plans. Some people in my hometown don't like him, but I admire him for putting so much effort into protecting the environment. I want to be able to help him and do my part too.

Is it important to teach students environmental protection at school?

It's my belief that environmental education is extremely important! The future of our planet is at stake, so in my opinion it's essential that kids learn about it. They are future decision makers, so I wish they can make informed decisions.

From my point of view, kids already hear enough about environmental issues, so they don't really need to learn about it at school. In my opinion, it should be parents and the community that educate them on the subject. I believe that would be enough.

How can people protect the environment?

I believe that the best way to protect the environment is to think locally. For example, if I buy fresh fruits and vegetables from local farms, I help protect the environment because the food doesn't need to travel long distances. It's small actions that make a difference.

From my point of view, it should be the government's responsibility to protect the environment. I don't think it's possible to do anything unless laws are put into place to force people into action. It seems to me it's hard for people to change their ways otherwise.

What is the importance of environmental education?

In my opinion, environmental education is very important with the general population. For instance, kids learn about it in schools, but I think adults also need to be targeted. I would like to see more actions being taken to educate adults.

其他观点

I don't believe that environmental education really makes a difference. I know people in my community that aren't ecologically-minded, and they'll never be, whatever is done. I find it disappointing that some people believe they're above it all, because environmental issues affect us all.

Do you think it is necessary to make environmental protection as a subject?

I'm not sure about environmental protection being a standalone subject. In my opinion, it would be better if it were taught across multiple classes. For example, I can imagine using it as a topic to write about in English or do research on in Science class.

Yes, it seems to me that environmental protection should be made into a subject of its own. It encompasses so much information that in my opinion, it's so deep a topic that it should be a standalone subject. I believe it would give it importance.
