
Describe a party that you joined

You should say:

When it took place

Where it was

Whose party it was

What you did there

And how you felt about the party

When I was about to graduate from high school, I got invited to party for celebration.

It was held in a five-star hotel in my city.

The party was exclusively organized for my classmates and teachers.

Everyone brought a gift to the party. Mine was a DIY cake that I spent a whole night making and I gave it to my history teacher. I also received gifts from others and I felt so lucky! Then the students took group pictures with each other and the teachers. Later there was karaoke singing and game playing. I won a few times in the games, which I'm still proud of. Lastly, we watched a short video made for all graduates to remember the school, the people and the days when we fought so hard to get a good grade in the exam.

I had a great time at the party, and I cannot believe it was a few years ago! Time flies! I really miss the good time and the great moments of my high school life. I wish I could go back in time and take part in that party again.

Do Chinese people like to hold parties?

Yes, Chinese people are generally very busy with their work, so whenever they have a chance, they will hold a party so that family and friends could hang out and catch up.

其他观点

Yes, we do. Most of the time, we are busy with school and work, so we will hold all kinds of parties to relax when we have time. It's also a great way to meet new people.

What do adults do at parties?

Adults drink beer or wine, and they dance to the music. They like to catch up with their friends in this kind of relaxing atmosphere.

其他观点

It sometimes depends on the theme of the parties. For example, at a party about movies, they watch a movie together at someone's living room, then they exchange their opinions about it.

Should parents spend a lot of money on their children's birthday parties?

I'm not in favor of this idea. Rather than spending a lot of money on children's birthday parties, parents should spend more on their education, like buying them books to read. It's more beneficial for them.

其他观点

I don't think so. Children will irrationally compare their own parties with those of their friends'. It's not helpful for them. It's the attitude of their parents rather than the money, which is more important.

Do you think people can make more friends if they often attend parties?

It depends on a person's personality. Parties just offer a chance for meeting new people. It doesn't guarantee its outcome. A shy person who doesn't like to talk will not make many friends even if he goes to parties very often.

其他观点

I don't think so. Maybe you can meet more people and become acquaintances at the party, but to become real friends, you will need more time to hang out and get to know each other better.

What do children often do in a birthday party?

They would stand in front of the birthday cake, and friends and family sing Happy Birthday, after which they make a wish. Then he or she opens the presents and shares the cake with all guests.

其他观点

Birthdays are important. Children will have a party with their friends and family or go to a restaurant to have a big birthday meal.
