Describe a time when you had some medicine

You should say:

When it happened

Who gave it to you

Why you had it

And how you felt about it

The last time I had medicine was last month in August.

I had to visit my doctor who then prescribed it to me, when I went for an appointment.

I had the medicine because I wanted to feel better because I was coughing so much. I had been coughing for so long and had previously visited my doctor, but the coughing persisted and only became worse. As a result, I decided to go again to make sure that it wasn't serious.

I felt angry that I had to take medicine because I hate taking medicine and I was also angry because I had to pay a lot of money to get it. I was also upset that I had to visit the doctor because I have a deep-seated fear of doctors. I often get scared that if I go for a problem I am experiencing, they will find something else that may be wrong with me and that scares me so much.

Do you agree that medicine is harmful?

I think medicine isn't harmful as long as it has done its job, it has clearly been successful. I take medication almost every month and so far, I have not had any issues with them. So I don't think medicines do any harm.

其他观点

I think medicine is harmful but the effects of it may not necessarily be immediate. I think that when you take medication for long periods, it does build up overtime and it can slowly damage organs without us even realizing.

What do you think of buying medicine online?

---

I think buying medicine online is a right and is up to a person's discretion. I think as long as I know what I want, and it is easily accessible, then I think it is fine to do so. As I always buy medicine from trustworthy websites, so the quality can usually be guaranteed.

其他观点

Buying medicine online is dangerous. It is not always clear whether it is the genuine product or not and someone could be selling something that is potentially fake that could cause a person harm.

What do you think of fake medicine?

I think fake medicine is very dangerous because it has not been approved by the organization that is responsible for doing so. If it has not been approved, then it could be dangerous and could end up hurting a lot of people.

其他观点

Fake medicine is illegal and can cause a lot of harm to people who take it. The manufacturers of fake medicine want to seek more profit and they do this by hurting people who trust their products. They should be severely punished.

In your opinion, why do some people dislike taking medicine?

Some people dislike taking medicine because they may not necessarily like the taste of medicine. Most tablets and aspirins have a very strong and bitter taste that many people object to, which is why a lot of people may refuse.

其他观点

Some dislike taking medicine because even though it might make them feel better, they would rather opt for something more natural that may not cause side effects. Depending on the particular ailment or issue, some decide to have a nap or drink water to help them instead of taking medication.
